

Note on Contributors (in order of appearance)

Jihan Zakarriya: Jihan Zakarriya is Associate Professor at ToRS, the University of Copenhagen. Her research interests are postcolonial studies, comparative literature, feminism, religion and politics in the middle east, and women's legal mobilization.

Sejal Mahendru: Sejal Mahendru is a Ph.D. Scholar in the Department of English at the University of North Carolina- Chapel Hill. Her research interests lie at the intersections of contemporary literature, environmental justice, postcolonial studies, and new media. Sejal also holds a Masters and an M.Phil Degree in English Literature from the University of Delhi, and has previously taught as an Assistant Professor at Daulat Ram College.

Trijit Mukherjee: Trijit Mukherjee hails from Kolkata and is an independent researcher. He holds a postgraduate degree in English Literature from Bhairab Ganguly College, West Bengal State University. Trijit's intellectual pursuits span a diverse array of subjects, including Film Studies, Partition Literature, Postcolonialism, Trauma Literature, and Gender and Memory Studies.

Sucharita Laha: Sucharita Laha has completed her Masters in English from The University of Burdwan (2021-2023). She has completed her graduation in English Literature from MUC Women's College, Burdwan. She is interested in trauma and memory studies, diasporic literature.

Adharshila Chatterjee: Adharshila Chatterjee is Assistant Professor in the Department of English at Women's Christian College, Kolkata. She is currently pursuing her Ph.D from the University of Calcutta. Her primary research interests include spatiality and geocriticism, South African Literature, popular cinema, trauma studies, gender and sexuality studies etc.

Reshma Khatoon: Reshma Khatoon is Assistant Professor of English at the Nayagram Pandit Raghunath Murmu Government College, Jhargram District. She completed her M.A. Degree in English from the University of Burdwan, and completed her M.Phil in Social Sciences from the Centre for Studies in Social Sciences, Calcutta. She is also pursuing her Ph.D from the Centre for Studies in Social Sciences, Calcutta.